

DVD Packaging is important when it comes to promoting your DVD's as it is the first impression that counts. So if you don't provide the right packaging in which to provide your DVD, then you might be missing out on the opportunity to make more of an impact. There are many types and styles of packaging which you can chose, which run from simple wallets through to complex boxed packaging. Depending on which you choose, greatly impacts on the price that you will. Another factor that will make a difference will be the number that your order. Small run batches can dramatically increase the price.