

Hand dryers are particularly useful in school environments where the need for personal hygiene is paramount. Encouraging children to wash their hands is a basic requirement and ensuring that they do this thoroughly and use the hand dryer afterwards will soon get them into the habit. If they are continually reminded from a young age to wash their hands and understand the need for this, it will become second nature which will stay with them into adult hood. Hand dryers in schools are a far more cost efficient and hygienic way of drying your hands than the use of paper towels.
